

FASHION HEAVY WEIGHTS JOIN FORCES TO SUPPORT FASHION SHOW IN AID OF DIANA AWARD

Finding Your Feet Fashion Show: Movida, London. 4 November 2009

In aid of the Diana Award, exclusive London member's club Movida is hosting a fashion show entitled 'Finding your Feet' on 4th November. The youth-led showcase is created by award holder and founder Jane Larbi, and will feature 7 up-and-coming British fashion designers together with established names. Nicole Farhi, Paul Smith, Lipsy, Tory Burch, Theory and Sub Couture amongst others are supporting the event.

All proceeds raised will be donated to the Diana Award, a national charity that recognizes young people who have made selfless contributions to their community. This charity, set up in memory of Princess Diana, empowers young people to make a positive change to society.

The event has received overwhelming support from across the fashion industry. Jane's vision has been executed with the help of party planner to the stars Sarah Gardner of Love Entertainment who also organised Cheryl Cole's extravagant birthday bash this year. Canapés will be supplied by John Lewis and drinks by M&S. Lots for the auction include; a portrait from Rock 'n roll photographer Lorraine Goddard, limited edition swimwear from Tara Matthews and tickets to Nicole Farhi's Autumn/Winter 2010 show at London Fashion Week to name a few.

Diana Award Holder, Jane Larbi says:

"The Finding Your Feet fashion show combines two of my passions – fashion and the Diana Award. My passion for fashion has evolved from seeing many of my peers, who are designers, struggling to get recognition for their work despite being excellent in their field. This youth-led fashion show, which has taken off with the backing of the Diana Award, will showcase up and coming young British talent and hopefully give them the recognition they deserve."
